The chapel was beautifully decorated with the dark green of rhododendrons.

Smilax and yellow chrysauthemums, covering the attar, looked origator in contrast under the soft fadiance of the chapter.

The marriage was solemnized by the Right Rev. Bishop Keiley, of Savannah, uncle of the groom, assisted by Rev. Father Hannigan, of Richmond, and Rev. Father Schielly, of Ronceverte, W. Va.

Father Schiellp, of Ronceverte, W. Va. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Miss Ethel Rumbold, one of the wedding guests.

An elegant luncheon was served to the guests at "Lynnside," the stately home of Colonel and Mrs. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley are now at home to their friends on Lafayette Avenue, Grantwood-on-the-Hudson. Those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Lynn Lewis, parents of the bride; Misses Mary and Coralle Lewis and Mrs. Cary Breckenridge Woodville, sister of

NEW JERSEY REPUBLICAN

John Kean To Be Returned To The U. S. Senate.

The U. S. Senate.

TRENTON, November 7.—The recent election in New Jersey assures the return of John Kean, the senior Senator. The State is securely held in the Republican column. This is largely due to Senator Keah, who has been untiring in his efforts in behalf of the State organization, and the success he has achieved has established his popularity on a permanent footing.

Senator John Kean has, during the administration of President Rooseveit, become very prominent in the Eastern wing of the Republican party. When it is borne in mind that the average age of fourteen out of eighteen Senators, representing nine States in the East, is seventy, it can be easily understood that the vigorous, active work of a national campaign must be borne shy younger men. And this is the view of the venerable Senators themselves. Senator Kean has quietly and tactfully borne his share of the work in the past, and during the coming Presidential contest he, will take an active part. The Senator is a natural diplomatist, an ardent admirer of the Presidential.

Presidential contest he will take an active part. The Senator is a natural diplomatist, an ardent admirer of the President, and on terms of the most cordial kind with the Republican Senators and party leaders of the States in what may be termed the Eastern section.

John Kean's political career in the State in which he was born covers a period of over twenty years. He was first elected to Congress in 1882, and served two terms; in 1892 he was a candidate for Governor, and in 1899 was elected United States Senator, so that it may be said he has been in public life for over twenty years. By profess on he is a lawyer. He is interested in many industries and enterprises.

Senator Kean possesses the faculty of making friends and few personal enemies. This counts for a good deal in Washington, where the personal popularity of a Representative or Senator has much to do with his success. Kean is conceded to be one of the most popular of Senators. His quiet, unasuming, undemonstrative, persistent way has resulted in securing benefits for his State and constituents which could not have been obtained at all by a man of different characteristics. He is known to be loyal and steadfast to friends and party. His strength in the national councils has steadily grown year by year. He has made no mistakes as a statesman and no biunders as a politician. Party leaders respect his quiet manner, his energy and determination. His vest experience in finance and commerce, gained in the direction of vast and varied enterprises, gives him a great advantage in the Senate and in party councils in framing the policy of the party.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.),
CHARLOTTESVILE, VA., Nevember 7.
Though suffering the worst defeat in its history, the foot-ball eleven of St. John's College, Annapolis, stored a fouchdown on Virginia to-day, the second made against the orange and blue this season.
Virginia ran up a total of forty-eight points in forty-five minutes of play, accriing four touchdowns in each half. Watkins did not miss a single goel. St.
John's touchdown came near the close of the first half. Heald, standing on Virginia's fifteen yard line, fumbled a punt and Captain Halbert, coming down the field at full speed, gathered up the pigskin, and though tackled, ran across the goal line. Green conveited it into a goal,

LOSES HER HEAD FOR A CROWN.
Lady Jane Grey, who suffered death
at the block in 15%, had the innocency of childhood, the beauty of youth, the solidity of middle age, the birth of a princess, the learnings of a clerk, the life of a saint, yet suffered the death of a martyr for her parents' offenses. Many persons innocently become the victums
of medical treatment when they could be
